I. Introduction and Orientation
- Opening Remarks: Reinforce that each team member represents the U.S. Army and is expected to maintain the highest standards of conduct, discipline, and appearance at all times.
- Reference: TC 7-21.13, The Soldier's Guide – emphasizes that every Soldier is responsible for maintaining Army Values, Warrior Ethos, and professional bearing both on and off duty.
- Focus Areas: Loyalty, Duty, Respect, Selfless Service, Honor, Integrity, and Personal Courage.
- Outcome: Ensure all personnel understand their role in contributing to the team's mission and maintaining Army professionalism.

II. Baseline of Conduct and Responsibilities
- Appearance and Discipline: AR 670-1, Wear and Appearance of Army Uniforms and Insignia – all Soldiers will maintain a neat, professional, and serviceable appearance at all times.
- Physical Readiness: AR 600-9, The Army Body Composition Program – Soldiers must maintain physical readiness and appearance consistent with Army standards.
- Training Readiness: AR 350-1, Army Training and Leader Development – mandates continuous individual and collective training to sustain readiness and proficiency.
- Outcome: Reinforce that discipline and standards are non-negotiable components of unit readiness and effectiveness.

III. Adherence to Army Doctrine and Updated Policies
- Doctrine Familiarization: TC 7-21.13 – outlines responsibilities of Soldiers as members of a profession grounded in trust and competence.
- Leadership Development: TC 6-22.6, Army Team Building – promotes understanding of leadership dynamics and the principles of team development.
- Training Compliance: AR 350-1 – emphasizes the importance of structured, progressive, and realistic training as a foundation for operational success.
- Implementation: Conduct regular professional development sessions, ensure awareness of policy changes, and encourage use of the Army Publishing Directorate (APD) to access current doctrine.

IV. Team Cohesion and Resilience
- Team Dynamics: Utilize TC 6-22.6 guidance to foster communication, trust, and collaboration.
- Resilience Building: Encourage participation in Master Resilience Training (MRT) techniques; reinforce that resilience is critical to combat readiness and long-term well-being.
- Inclusive Leadership: Recognize diversity and strengths within the team; promote respect and accountability.
- Outcome: Develop a team identity based on mutual support, trust, and shared purpose.

V. Team Goals, Aspirations, and Timelines
- Short-Term Goals: Complete required training per AR 350-1, maintain compliance with body composition standards (AR 600-9), and ensure uniform and appearance compliance (AR 670-1).
- Mid-Term Goals: Enhance leadership capabilities through study and application of TC 6-22.6 and TC 7-21.13.
- Long-Term Goals: Build a cohesive, resilient team capable of executing missions with competence, discipline, and adaptability.
- Timeline:
  - Initial Review: Within 30 days – verify understanding and compliance.
  - Monthly Assessments: Evaluate training, readiness, and cohesion progress.
  - Ad Hoc Review: Conduct comprehensive assessment tied to unit objectives and individual professional development plans when necessary.
